

IN SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

MARCH 1, 1845.

Submitted, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. DIX made the following

REPORT:

[To accompany bill H. R. 516.]

The Committee on Pensions, to which was referred an act placing the name of Benjamin Allen on the invalid pension roll, report :

That the testimony in respect to the rupture alleged to have been received by the petitioner by hard lifting at Fort Amanda—the injury on which his claim is founded—is not sufficiently direct or satisfactory to establish his right to a pension. On the contrary, it is shown by Thompson Hill, one of the witnesses in his behalf, that he had been previously sick for some time before going to Fort Amanda, and that he understood his complaint to be rheumatic pains. In the absence of sufficient direct testimony on the essential point of the injury, the committee recommend that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

REPORT OF THE UNITED STATES COMMISSION ON INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

March 1, 1917

Presented to the Senate and House of Representatives at Washington, D. C.

By the Commission on Industrial Relations

REPORT

(Transmitted with the report)

The Commission on Industrial Relations was organized by the Senate and House of Representatives on March 1, 1914, to investigate the causes of the industrial unrest and to recommend effective remedies.

The Commission has the honor to submit to the Senate and House of Representatives this report of its findings and recommendations. The Commission believes that the industrial system in this country is in a state of transition, and that the present conditions are not sustainable. It is the duty of the Government to take prompt action to bring about a more equitable and stable industrial system.
